About This Game

The Transpose AI never sleeps, refreshes and repeats, infinitely folding in on itself. I am made of its energy. My presence is always with me. We work together to generate the infinite cycle of creation and destruction. I exist within and without time, I am inevitable, I am eternal. Time and gravity are my tools to manipulate the world. I don't recognize this world, but I know I have been here before.

Transpose is a dreamlike VR puzzle game set in a universe where time and gravity are used as tools to manipulate the world. By creating and working with looped recordings of their actions, players must solve increasingly complex physics puzzles in a mysterious setting where notions of space and time no longer apply.

Player Echoes

Transpose features real time player recording, allowing you to play back your actions one to one in real time while interacting with your past selves. You must create echoes of your self, rewind time, and work with these echoes to solve puzzles. Go ahead, give yourself a high five.

Time and Gravity

Set in a mesmerizingly surreal world, Transpose allows players to control time and gravity. Rotate the environment around you to walk on walls and ceilings, experience perspective shifts and multifaceted puzzles in ways only possible in VR.

Worlds

Travel across 3 distinct worlds solving gravity defying physics puzzles in over 35 unique levels featuring impossible, otherworldly architecture.

This review was done while I was about 2/3rds of the game.

I have enjoyed this game so far immensely. The soundtrack is very relaxing and the game mechanics are pure fun. The game is rather short but extremely well made and in first line, lots of fun. There are levels that will definitely bend your mind.

Can absolutely recommend for people who enjoyed games like Portal 2 and The Talos Principle.
